HOW APPRENTICESHIPS WORK

ELECTRICAL INSTALLATION APPRENTICESHIP PROGRAMME

This apprenticeship deals with the service and repair of a range of electrical equipment – from TVs and domestic appliances, to aerial systems in blocks of flats. As an electrical and electronic servicing apprentice, you'll choose your area of specialisation. For this career, you'll need a keen interest in technology, good analytical skills to work out what's causing a device to fail, and practical skills to fix it. A lot of the work involves identifying cables and components by colour, so a normal colour vision is important.
